Overview

American Festival for the Arts (AFA) was founded in 1993 with a mission to provide music education and performance opportunities for youth and to broaden the audience for American works and classical music.

Since 1996, AFA has presented an annual Summer Music Conservatory and Concert Series. In keeping with our mission to broaden the audience for American works, AFA is proud to have presented 151 concerts from the 1996-2006 concert seasons.

Of those 151 concerts, AFA students and faculty have performed 915 works from the classical music repertoire. Of those 915 works, 330 of them (36%) have been American works. Of the American works, 98 (29.7%) were world premieres of new works by members of the AFA composition department, students and guest composers. Since 1998, AFA has striven to maintain a programming balance of 30%+ American Works and 10%+ world premieres for each concert season. As AFA looks to the future and with the recent addition of an AFA Middle School program and AFA Choral/Vocal program, AFA hopes to increase that programming balance to 40%+ American Works and 12.5%+ premieres in the 2006 season and beyond.

AFA is proud of our record of premiering new American works and to be the premiere presenter of both American works and world premieres in the City of Houston.
